running build
running build_ext
building dbm using gdbm

Python build finished, but the necessary bits to build these modules were not found:
_bsddb              bsddb185            dl imageop             sunaudiodev
To find the necessary bits, look in setup.py in detect_modules() for the module's name.

michelle@sandbox:~$ python --version Python 2.7.6
michelle@sandbox:~$ pip install You must give at least one requirement to install (see "pip help install")
```

```
michelle@sandbox:~$ pip help install

Usage:
  pip install [options] <requirement specifier> ...
  pip install [options] -r <requirements file> ... pip install [options] [-e] <vcs project url> ...
  pip install [options] [-e] <local project path> ... pip install [options] <archive url/path> ...

Description:
  Install packages from:

  - PyPI (and other indexes) using requirement specifiers.
  - VCS project urls.
  - Local project directories.
  - Local or remote source archives.

  pip also supports installing from "requirements files", which provide an easy way to specify a whole environment to be installed.

Install Options:
  -e, --editable <path/url>   Install a project in editable mode (i.e. setuptools

                              "develop mode") from a local project path or a VCS url.
  -r, --requirement <file>    Install from the given requirements file. This option can be used multiple times.

  -b, --build <dir>           Directory to unpack packages into and build in. The default in a virtualenv is "<venv path>/ build". The default for global installs is "<OS temp dir>/pip_build_<username>".

  -t, --target <dir>          Install packages into <dir>.
  -d, --download <dir>        Download packages into <dir> instead of installing them,

                              regardless of what's already installed.
  --download-cache <dir>      Cache downloaded packages in <dir>.
  --src <dir>                 Directory to check out editable projects into. The

                              default in a virtualenv is "<venv path>/ src". The default

                              for global installs is "<current dir>/ src".
  -U, --upgrade               Upgrade all packages to the newest available version.

                              This process is recursive regardless of whether a

```
                              dependency is already satisfied.
  --force-reinstall           When upgrading, reinstall all packages even if they are already up-to-date.

  -I, --ignore-installed      Ignore the installed packages (reinstalling instead).
  --no-deps                   Don't install package dependencies.
  --no-install                DEPRECATED. Download and unpack all packages, but don't actually install them.

  --no-download               DEPRECATED. Don't download any packages, just install the ones already downloaded (completes an install run with

                              --no-install).
  --install-option <options>  Extra arguments to be supplied to the setup.py install install-                      command (use like --install-option="-- --install-option             scripts=/usr/local/bin"). Use multiple setup.py install. If         options to pass multiple options to path, be sure to             you are using an option with a directory use absolute path.

  --global-option <options>   Extra global options to be supplied to the setup.py call

                              before the install command.
  --user                      Install using the user scheme.
  --egg                       Install packages as eggs, not 'flat', like pip normally does. This option is not about installing from eggs.

                              (WARNING: Because this option overrides pip's normal

                              install logic, requirements files may not behave as expected.)

  --root <dir>                Install everything relative to this alternate root directory.

  --compile                   Compile py files to pyc
  --no-compile                Do not compile py files to pyc
  --no-use-wheel              Do not Find and prefer wheel archives when searching

                              indexes and find-links locations.
  --pre                       Include pre-release and development versions. By default, pip only finds stable versions.

```

```
  --no-clean                      Don't clean up build directories.

Package Index Options:
  -i, --index-url <url>           Base URL of Python Package Index (default
                                  https://pypi.python.org/simple/).
  --extra-index-url <url>         Extra URLs of package indexes to use in addition to
                                  --index-url.
  --no-index                      Ignore package index (only looking at -- find-links URLs instead).
  -f, --find-links <url>          If a url or path to an html file, then parse for links to archives. If a local path or file:// url that's a

python2.7
 This PPA contains Python 2.7 point updates for Ubuntu. While Python point updates (e.g. 2.7.9) don't normally add new features, the 2.7 series is a bit of an odd one: due to its long-maintenance status, 2.7 point releases will have backports of selected, security-related additional features from the 3.x series to keep it useful for networkrelated tasks. See also https://www.python.org/dev/peps/pep-0466/
for the full rationale and list of backported features.

This is an offshot of my main Python PPA, providing packages for Python versions that aren't available in an Ubuntu release at all:
https://launchpad.net/~fkrull/+archive/ubuntu/deadsnakes

KEEP IN MIND that this PPA will replace a core system component (i.e.
Python 2.7)! While I've tried to minimise the risk of compatibility issues, I don't take any responsibility for compatibility problems or security issues with these packages.

Additional Notes
================
Python 2.7.9 includes the ``ensurepip`` module from Python 3.4, see:
https://www.python.org/dev/peps/pep-0477/
These packages disable the ``ensurepip`` module; while an ``ensurepip`` module is included, it will only raise an exception/output a message redirecting users to the Ubuntu ``python-pip`` package instead. (This disabling is explicitly allowed by PEP 477.)

This PPA doesn't include the python-tk and python-gdbm packages (and their -dbg equivalents); these are built from a different source package, so they will still be from the 2.7 version originally shipped with the Ubuntu release. Since these modules aren't touched by the backports in the 2.7 series, this generally shouldn't make a difference, so I consider it an acceptable concession.
